Reaction to TRE Q1 Earnings Call

The selloff in TRE shares following this morning's call illustrates our overall feelings about management's responses to questions. The highlights are:

- Ernst & Young has been unable to complete its review of TRE's Q1 numbers.
- Chairman / CEO Allen Chan personally guarantees that TRE has disclosed all related party transactions. However at no time did management address TRE's relationship with Lei Guangyu, the only disclosed AI. Mr. Chan stated that Mr. Lei is a major AI.
- TRE's suppliers (agents) and buyers (AIs) are two different parties. As shown by our analysis of five suppliers, none of which were capable of selling nearly the volume of timber TRE claims, TRE had made this point clearly before.
- TRE added an odd twist to its disclosed business model. AIs now apparently do not pay TRE directly (see our discussion of the various problems in doing so). Rather they pay TRE indirectly by paying TRE's "designated purchasing agents", which then purchase more parcels. As we wrote in our initial report, a consistent theme of TRE's stated business practices is that they are unnecessary, overly complicated, and risky for a legitimate business.

Is the designated purchasing agent an AI-squared? We look forward to more detail on this new facet so that we can analyze the legal and practical issues.

- Mr. Chan explained that the AI model came into being because TRE could not form WFOEs in the 1990s to conduct this business. As we pointed out in our report, after TRE's EJV with the Leizhou Forestry Bureau terminated (due to TRE's failure to contribute its capital), TRE had a WFOE that had a business scope that permitted it to do business directly. Aside from that point, management did not explain why it continues to use an AI model today. Thus the AI model makes no more sense now than it did before this explanation.
- TRE still refuses to disclose its AIs' identities for "competitive reasons." It cited an example from the 1990s when an AI's identity was disclosed, and then smaller competitors undercut TRE's prices and won business. This explanation strikes us once again as TRE relying on everybody in the chain (e.g., the farmers) being ignorant.

We do not dispute that TRE's AIs are overpaying TRE (allowing TRE a 55% gross margin on standing timber). However, TRE's AIs would be among the largest buyers of timber in China – we do not understand how revealing their identities could subject them to any greater information about the extent of this overpayment than they are currently in a position to receive.

- It will apparently take PWC two to three months to complete its investigation. In our experience with much smaller frauds / companies, this is an aggressive timeline.
- CFO David Horsley stated that TRE can not confirm whether the AIs actually make TRE's tax payments. He said they "just don't know" whether the payments are made. Again, the AI model is unnecessary, overly complicated, and risky for a legitimate business.
- Allen Chan did not answer a question about how much replanting TRE did in the quarter, other than to say that TRE is progressing with the program. He later responded to a question about whether TRE is in compliance with PRC replanting regulations by stating that TRE would have heard from the authorities if it were not.

We believe that investors underappreciate the replanting metric (or lack thereof). China has in the past experienced devastating floods due to harvesting without sufficient replanting. If TRE were not fulfilling its obligations to replant, this would complicate the ability of either TRE or its AIs to obtain harvesting permits for the standing timber.

- Management stated something to the effect that it could remit its cash out of China by closing or selling the BVI entities, and then remitting the cash. This was not a confident or clear explanation, and it raises more questions than it answers. Along those lines, when TRE was asked to clarify this statement during the Q&A, nobody answered and the questioner was mysteriously dropped.
- TRE had some notable blocks / drops of other awkward questions. TRE cut off the Nomura analyst Anissa Lee rather than answering her question asking for more details on where the cash balances are kept.

Management also failed to attempt to answer a question about whether its banks are uncomfortable with extending credit. Instead of answering, there was a death ray type of sound toward the end of the question, and the questioner was no longer there. In true memory hole fashion, management moved onto the next questioner without making any statement in response to the question.

- William Ardell stated that PWC is going to check balances in every PRC bank account at the branch level. As LFT, CCME, and other frauds show us, such confirmation should also take place at the central level of the banks – branches are easily corrupted.

- Regarding the dearth of information in the data room, Allen Chan said that he would have to check with “our people” about putting more information online. We advise investors to take note of this delay.

The Ties that Blind
Part 1: Huaihua Yuda

“I personally stand by and guarantee that the audited financial statements in the reports filed are accurate, and any material connected parties’ transactions have been disclosed in our management discussions and analysis.” – Allen Chan, Sino-Forest Chairman / CEO on TRE’s June 14, 2011 conference call.

Contrary to information TRE released on June 17, 2011, Huaihua Yuda, appears to be closely related to TRE.

Background

Sino-Forest investors had not heard of Huaihua Yuda (“Yuda”) until Muddy Waters, LLC’s June 2nd report on TRE. Our report disclosed the existence of Yuda, and showed that TRE has been moving significant sums of money to Yuda. On June 17th, TRE posted a local government letter in its data room that states Yuda is not a subsidiary of TRE; rather, that it is a subsidiary of Sonic Jita Engineering Ltd.

Summary

Sonic Jita was once owned by Sino-Forest executives, and then by Sino-Forest itself. When TRE owned Sonic Jita, TRE engaged in a major undisclosed related party transaction with Sonic Jita. At present Sonic Jita is nominally owned by parties unrelated to TRE. TRE and Sonic Jita share a senior executive, although it is unclear whether his dual role is concurrent. A recent report by Canada’s Globe and Mail presents evidence suggesting that TRE exercises control over Yuda.

Sonic Jita and Sino-Forest

Sino-Forest executives, and then Sino-Forest itself, owned Sonic Jita. At the time TRE owned Sonic Jita, TRE entered into a major transaction with Sonic Jita that TRE did not disclose was a related party transaction. As part of this transaction, TRE was sued for an alleged breach of a contract by Sonic Jita, even though Sonic Jita was not named as a defendant. Sonic Jita and TRE appear to share at least one key executive, although it is currently unclear whether his dual role is concurrent.

Sino-Wood Partners Ltd. and Sino-Wood (Guangdong) Ltd., two of TRE’s primary holding companies, previously owned Sonic Jita. At the time TRE (via its subsidiaries) owned Sonic Jita, TRE announced that it had entered into a major equipment purchase contract with Sonic Jita. TRE disclosed the transaction as though it were an unconnected arm's length transaction.¹ In reality, TRE was named the sole defendant in a 1998 lawsuit relating to Sonic Jita's alleged breach of a contract. We are unclear why Sonic Jita was not named as a defendant. Thus, as early as 1997, TRE engaged in an undisclosed related party transactions with Sonic Jita.

TRE acquired its stake in Sonic Jita from TRE co-founder K.K. Poon; ADS Capital Ltd.²; and Leslie Chan, who was then a major shareholder and executive vice president of TRE as well as a co-founder of Sino-Wood Partners Ltd. (we are unclear whether there is a familial relationship between Allen Chan and Leslie Chan). Allen Chan was a director of Sonic Jita at the time TRE acquired Sonic Jita. It was never disclosed that TRE's management individually owned and controlled Sonic Jita.

Sonic Jita is presently owned by parties who appear unrelated to TRE.

However, Sonic Jita appears to share at least one key executive with TRE, Mr. Ye Han Xiang. It is unclear at this point whether Mr. Ye concurrently holds a position at Sonic Jita. Mr. Ye is the Legal Representative³ of four TRE entities, including one of TRE's acknowledged Huaihua companies, Sino-Panel (Yuan Ling) Co. Ltd. According to the first website below, Mr. Ye entered into a contract in 2005 with Hong Jiang City, Hunan Province on behalf of Sonic Jita. The second website shows Mr. Ye's status as Sino-Panel Yuan Ling's current Legal Representative.

² It is likely that ADS Capital Ltd. was at least partly controlled by Allen Chan. During the 1990's, Mr. Chan was a director of A D Sinensas & Assoc.; further, in prior prospectuses, Allen Chan's family members were disclosed as beneficial owners of TRE stock via ADS Holdings BVI Ltd.

³ The Legal Representative is a company official who has legal authority to enter into binding contracts, and who is personally liable for administrative and criminal wrongdoing by the company.

Yuda and Sino-Forest

Canada's Globe and Mail recently encountered evidence that TRE controls Yuda when it visited Yuda's office.⁴ It wrote

“But again, it's a challenge trying to track down the real origins of the Sino-Forest partner. No street address is given for Huaihua Yuda Wood on the documents made available by Sino-Forest, only the name of a tiny township called Anjiang in southern Hunan province. There, locals say a company called Yuda did indeed own a crumbling sawmill in the area that has since changed hands. Employees who remained behind at the mill after it was sold say they believed that Huaihua Yuda Wood was indeed a subsidiary of Sino-Forest. “There were Canadians here all the time back then,” said an office worker who would only give her family name, Yi.

At the offices of Jiading, the Sino-Forest subsidiary in the nearby city of Dongkou, the story gets even more complicated. The factory manager says Huaihua Yuda Wood's operations are indeed in the same building as Jiading's. Yuda is a “cousin company,” the factory manager explained.

But his boss, general manager Liu Zhiwei, denies that's the case and says Yuda Wood remains an independent company based in Anjiang, though he says he doesn't know its address or phone number.

An official with the Huaihua City Bureau of Commerce told The Globe and Mail by telephone Wednesday that Huaihua Yuda was no longer a legally registered company and that he could not provide any other information. But that same week, the seemingly defunct company wrote to the same commerce bureau, asking for and receiving a letter clarifying that it was indeed a separate entity from Sino-Forest.”⁵
